Thomas, tenth Earl of Dundonald, at his death vice admiral in the English navy, tells in his "Autobiography of a Seaman" of an incident on board the Hind on which he served as midshipman. The pet of the ship was a parrot, the aversion of the boatswain, whose whistle the bird learned to imitate exactly.

"One day a party of ladies paid us a visit aboard. By the usual means of a whip' on the yardarm several had been hotsted on deck. The chain had descended for another. Scarcely had its fair freight been lifted out of the boat alongside when the parrot piped. 'Let go!'

"The order was instantly obeyed, and the unfortunate lady, instead of being comfortably seated on deck, was soused in the sea. Luckily for her, the men were on the watch and quickly pulled her out, and, luckily for the par-rot, the boatswain was on shore or this unseasonable assumption of the boatswain's functions might have endad tragically for the bird."

How Prisoners Converse

A man who was sent to jail recently for three days for a small offense was greatly impressed with the precautions taken to prevent the priso engaging in conversation. There seemed to be warders everywhere, and no one was allowed to utter a word.

On the Sunday he was in the church the pasim given was the "Old Hundredth." Beside him were two old jail-birds, and instead of the orthodox words beginning "All people that on earth do dwell" this pair sang a hymn of their own in conversational style, which went something as follows: First convict sings:

"How long are you in for?

I am doing sixty days.

I nearly broke a copper's jaw.

Sing low or else they'll maybe hear." Becond convict replies:

"You are a lucky pic-can.
I've got twel-sive months to serve.
Tried to break into a house.
Some'dy must have gi'en me away." By this method they exchanged histories during the singing.-Glasgow News.

There is the case of Czar Alexander III. in his last illness Robson, the great Notts cricketer. Dr. Zaharin required the same preparation for his visit to the palace as to determined one sorching afternoon any of his patients' homes—that is to say, all dogs had to be kept out of the way, all clocks stopped and every door thrown wide open. Following a process of gradual undressing, he left his furs in the hall, his overcoat in the next room, his galoches in the third and, continuing, arrived at the bedside in ordinary indoor costume. This was only one phase of Dr. Zaharin's golden ded Australian-'you see, I don't quite theory that "you should take a rest know the English meaning of "wo- before you are tired." Accordingly he sat down after walking every few yards and every eight steps in going upstairs. From the patient's relatives and every one else in the house he required absolute silence until he spoke to them, when his questions had to be answered by "Yes" or "No" and nothing more. To the actual patient, however, he was courtesy and considera-

They Hed Will Power. I was sitting one morning in a quiet corner at Monte Carlo when two elderly men sat down beside me. One was evidently a Scotchman, and the other. I gathered, was from Yorkshire. The former remarked, "I have just managed it." This, I discovered, meant a win of 20 francs. Their daily routine was to appear at the same roulette table at an early hour and play the lowest stake of 5 francs on even chancesthat is, on black or red or on the odd or even numbers. They would lose and win and win and lose, but they remained calm and self contained and persevered until they had each 20 francs to the good. I observed them daily. Some mornings they scooped in the amount in twenty minutes, and at other times it was a tough struggle until luncheon time before they managed it. I never saw them fail once, and I learned that they had pursued the same plan for four months. One thing was clear-nothing could tempt them to go beyond the modest stake, and they had the will to stop when they won the stipulated amount. It was really one of the best Illustrations of will power I have ever seen, for few, indeed, who enter the portals of the casino are able to resist the compelling atmosphere of the tables to play on if losing and to plunge if winning.-Chambers' Journal.
